PIERRE PAULIN

Born in Paris in 1927, Pierre Paulin spent his childhood in Laon. His taste for creativity and design came to him at a very young age when he was excited and inspired by the work of his uncle, Georges Paulin, an automotive designer.

Most notably, the latter was the creator of the Éclipse retractable automobile roof. His uncle showed him that design has huge potential for development through creativity.

Pierre was just as inspired by the work of his great-uncle, the sculptor Fredy Balthazar Stoll, a pupil of Rodin who was to awaken his appreciation of art.

His desire to create his own furniture arose during the 1950s. Finding himself without a manufacturer, he decided to self-publish with financial input from his father. He displayed his creations at the Salon des Arts Ménagers would catch the eye of Thonet-France, with whom he later collaborated.

By January 2008, the fortuitous meeting of Pierre Paulin and Michel Roset in 2006 had translated into the simultaneous launch of the Pumpkin settees and armchairs – a reinterpretation of seating originally designed by Paulin in 1971 for the private apartments of Claude and Georges Pompidou in the Élysée Palace – and that of Tanis, the reissue of the hugely popular CM 141 desk, originally produced by Thonet France in 1954.

Pierre Paulin, faithful as ever to his original convictions, was delighted to (again) put his creations into the service of the greatest possible number of people.

«I am at the service of the public,
I have never done anything to shock.
I like things done well,
and they have to please me.»

If designing pieces capable of standing the test of time is the hallmark of great designers, Pierre Paulin certainly fits the description. And if his furniture is becoming more accessible today, sparking genuine enthusiasm among a wide audience, he would certainly have been pleased.

Merci.
